

My True Story

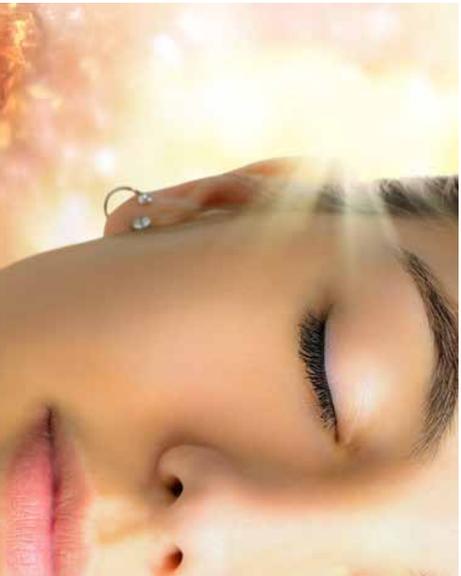

A MIRACLE HEALING.

by Grace Weston

In November 2014, healer Matthew Lennon saved my life. A doctor recommended Matthew to my mum, saying that if Matthew couldn't help me, no one could. I was carried into his clinic weighing six stone and freezing with the cold. Patients in the clinic gave me their slugs, as they felt I wouldn't survive the night.

I had been diagnosed with kidney disease, liver failure, blockages on my heart, thyroid and lung problems, Lyme Disease, eight infections, and lastly, a large lump on my right breast! I had been given up by the medics after eleven years of treatment and sent home to die.

A professor told me that my thyroid was shutting down my organs and he consulted with a respiratory consultant in a famous Dublin clinic to support my treatment. The consultant told me I was on a maintenance programme to try and give me the best quality of life that they could offer for the remainder of my life – which appeared as though it would be short.

“Ten months later, I came on in the Laois Senior County Final ... which we won.”

When I went into Matthew, he told me my life force was very low. He asked me a lot of questions and he appeared to make his own diagnosis of my situation. He treated me as often as he could, and ten months later, I came on in the Laois Senior County Final. ... which we won. I am now back to fitness and enjoying life!

Easeful Massage

LIFT YOUR FACE NATURALLY.

by Paul Congdon

“Would you like to dance?” said the voice in my head. At least, that’s how it felt as Ffion Thomas began her treatment of my face.

A combination of her naturally facelifting massage techniques and the kansa wand she uses in her treatments helped to unfold, relax and ease my face into a blissful field of relaxation. The kansa wand is a metal bronze alloy. It feels cold to the touch, yet it slides over the contours and tension points in your face with a great sense of ease, producing a releasing effect.

“specialise in natural forms of facial rejuvenation,” she explains, “especially Ayurvedic facial rejuvenation. I combine a few different methods, and the kansa wand massage is a very popular treatment. The word kansa means bronze – a combination of copper, tin and iron. It’s known as the healing metal in Ayurveda. This metal is really good at getting under the contours of the face and soothing the facial muscles. It really helps alleviate any stagnation.”

Ffion is so dedicated to what she does. When you receive a treatment from her, you can feel a sense of caring and kindness with every stroke. If your jaw or your head needs to rest, a session with Ffion will provide that pitstop and leave you looking younger than a baby.

People With No Brains

IS IT POSSIBLE?

by Ray Behan

Sharon Parker has no observable brain, for the most part. She is a qualified nurse and married with children. In childhood, doctors observed that she has no more than 15% of a brain.

It is a popular assumption that the size of the brain determines a person’s intelligence. However, there are thought to be many people who have survived with no brain. Now, I know what you may be thinking here: ‘yeah Ray... I married him!’ That’s not what I mean.

Sharon’s IQ is 113. She is above average. People like Sharon and Phineas Gage have survived, lived and loved with minimal brains. Where is their consciousness, and why are they smart? Stuart Hameroff, a professor at the University of Arizona known for his studies of consciousness, believes that quantum states in neural microtubules are responsible for consciousness.

I have my own theory.

Sharon has a neocortex and medulla. When brain neurons are activated, an electrical charge crosses the synaptic gap. This charge has an epiphenomenon (a millionth of a volt) generated when the firing occurs. All electrical charges generate an electromagnetic field (EMF). EMFs have a signature. These ‘signatures’ store information. EMFs surround us, and are interconnected and connected to the unified field that gives rise to the universe.

Is it possible that Sharon’s ‘partial’ brain fires a charge, creating an EMF which connects with the field outside of her, forms a signature, and becomes her memory, which she then accesses?
